

Thank you!

Thank you for your purchase! I love teaching my students about cognates. I use these posters on a wall in my classroom to post all our biliteracy work.

Students learn what cognates are through curriculum content. When we find a cognate with students we repeat both words, once in Spanish and then in English to make sure they sound the same/similar, we look at and read the word to make sure it is spelled the same/similar, and we make sure they mean the same thing. As we say the words, we hold out one hand for Spanish and the other in English, if they are cognates then we hold both fists together as we shout "¡cognados!" "cognates!". Students love identifying cognates. I hope you find these posters resourceful as you are teaching your students about cognates.
